She should also wish the PM Mazel Tov on his new grandson, just born within the last day or so.

- The goal is clear: to bring an end to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict and to resolve the open disputes and claims between the parties, including the territorial and security issues addressed by UN Security Council Resolution 242 and 338, by reaching realistic, effective, and enduring agreements and arrangements which will enable two states to live side by side in peace and security—the state of Israel with secure and recognized borders and an independent and territorially and economically viable Palestinian state. Without prejudice to the location of borders, the land being discussed is the territory occupied in 1967.

- It is understood that this will be achieved through direct bilateral negotiations which will resolve previously identified issues such as security, borders, settlements, refugees, Jerusalem, relations, and cooperation with other neighbors as well as other issues of common interest. The U.S. will play an active and sustained role in supporting the parties in this effort. The parties will need to: agree on the conduct of the negotiations, reach the necessary agreements and arrangements, and ultimately attain their long awaited mutual reconciliation.
