

RELEASE IN FULL

---

From: Mills, Cheryl D <MillsCD@state.gov>
Sent: Tuesday, October 6, 2009 10:16 PM
To: H
Subject: FW: Update: Food Security--World Food Prize video

fyi

-----Original Message-----

From: Klevorick, Caitlin B
Sent: Tuesday, October 06, 2009 10:15 PM
To: Mills, Cheryl D; Fitzgerald, Betsy A; Dowd, Katie W
Cc: Plowden, Marisa L; Lurie, Mike D; Toiv, Nora F; Laszczyc, Joanne
Subject: Update: Food Security--World Food Prize video

Great news--

The video that S taped this am will likely kick off the World Food Prize conference. I will also coordinate with Katie to make sure we get this up on the website.

Below is more info on its likely placement from the team at the World Food Prize.

"We would like to show the Secretary's remarks at the outset of the symposium on the afternoon of Wednesday, October 14. The symposium begins at 1 p.m. with about 15-20 minutes of introductory comments by Ambassador Quinn. He would incorporate the video into this opening as her remarks tie together so many of the themes so perfectly. Dr. Ejeta will be on stage at the time; it would be a great moment to honor him, to remember Dr. Borlaug, and to have the Secretary's message foreground the discussions that will follow. (For your reference, the 3 opening keynotes will be delivered by ADM CEO Patricia Woertz, DuPont CEO Ellen Kullman, and Dutch Minister of Agriculture Gerda Verburg.)"