Working on this now

All

I connect this information with Tim Callahan on the ground in Haiti (Mark he is head of the Disaster Assessment team).

He is working this issue.

I understand from Susan that there is limited or no medical supplies or equipment that has hit the ground since last night; I am assuming the opportunity to address first food and water exists.

Whatever can be done will be done.

We should wait for updates as available with priority being action over updates.

Thanks all.
