QDR

- We have to send our comments on the QDR to DoD today.

P Travel

- Bill noted he leaves for Moscow tomorrow then on to Madrid for a meeting with the EU Political Directors and New York for a P5+1 Political Directors meeting on Iran.

TSA Screening

- PJ said our posts are in a difficult spot in pushing back on public reaction to the TSA list of countries identified for special screening because the list has not been officially released (though it has leaked). [redacted]
[redacted] Cheryl recommended that he speak to DHS [redacted]
[redacted]
- In the Assistant Secretaries meeting, Judith McHale noted the significant negative fallout from the screening list on our broader public diplomacy efforts in particular countries and the Muslim world at large. Johnnie Carson seconded her observations, noting that in [redacted] the addition of that country to the list has provoked strong negative reaction from both our enemies and friends alike, and could impact bilateral relations. Many [redacted] questioned why the whole country was being affected by the actions of one [redacted] noting that countries that are much larger sources of international terrorists were not included on the list.

Congressional Issues

- Rich noted a series of upcoming hearings, most stemming from the attempted Christmas bombing:
  - Senate Judiciary (1/20) – Janice Jacobs with DHS and FBI.

2. Senate Foreign Relations (1/20) – focused on counterterrorism in Yemen with Dan Benjamin and Jeff Feltman.
  3. Senate Intelligence (1/21) – Dan Benjamin.
  4. Senate and House Homeland Security (1/27?) – Janice Jacobs.
- Rich also said that David Miliband will appear before the SFRC on January 21 in the afternoon to make a statement and engage in a “dialogue,” followed by an appearance by Richard Holbrooke.
  - In addition, the WH is proposing that the Secretary and Secretary Gates appear at a breakfast briefing for Hill leaders on January 21 to rollout the new export promotion initiative. Rich suggested that if we do this, it be billed as a much broader national security breakfast briefing that would touch as well on Iran policy/sanctions, START, etc.
  - With respect to the Iran Sanctions Act, Rich reported that at a special meeting [redacted] suggested that we might not have to launch formal investigations under the Iran Sanctions Act as long as we demonstrated forward movement. [redacted]
