Dear Cheryl,

Thanks for your trademark prompt, clear and courteous response. As always, it and you are appreciated knowing the demands of your responsibilities.

I fully realize that the Secretary is engaged (understatement of the year), so I will wait on and anticipate her call as soon as she has a convenient window to do so. The matters I would like to discuss with Hillary are very timely and important but not urgent.

I will be available on my cell phone or through my assistant who will be traveling with me. Coordinates in London are as follows.

Claridge's: 020-7629-8860

Thank you.

Mack

Dear Mack:

Thank you for following up on this matter. I know she appreciated your conversation and has been concerned about this matter.

I will flag for Lona – this week is relatively hectic so it may be a weekend or next week call but will flag now as this issue is ripe.

Best.

Dear Cheryl,

Good morning on a consequential and indeed historic week in the life of our country given the passage of health care reform. President Obama was courageous, persevering and skilled in his leadership and efforts. Having said that, in my humble opinion, he would not have been successful had it not been for President Clinton's, Hillary's and our efforts in 1994. That's my story and I'm sticking to it, and I believe it's true.

I know this has been a particularly demanding week in the life of the Secretary and in your life as well. Having Netanyahu, AIPAC and a major trip to Mexico to fight the narco-traffickers is a formidable task even for Hillary Clinton.

Cheryl, I would like to respectfully request a brief meeting or phone call with Secretary Clinton following up on the conversation she initiated with me at the Vital Voices event regarding the IDB. It's my sense and belief that this matter needs to be carefully handled for a number of reasons including the longstanding friendship that both the Secretary and President Clinton have with Luis Alberto Moreno. I also have another important and timely matter (personal not business) that I would like to discuss with Hillary in our time together.

As I think you know, I try to be very judicious about these types of requests. I think 15 minutes either in person or by phone will be adequate to cover both of these subjects. As always, I appreciate your consideration relating to my request. Thank you and I'll await your guidance and direction.

Personally,
Mack
