

RELEASE IN FULL

From: Sullivan, Jacob J <SullivanJJ@state.gov>
Sent: Sunday, May 23, 2010 10:26 AM
To: H
Subject: Re: Opening statement

I asked the same q about economy - you covered it in your opening last year.

On the message, I agree it's not exciting, but it basically is the win-win point, combined with the idea that our cooperation is needed to solve global problems and advance mutual interests.

We discuss development ... I will ensure we work in other topics (health, ed, women, etc.) and also find other ways to sharpen.

----- Original Message -----

From: H <HDR22@clintonemail.com>
To: Sullivan, Jacob J
Sent: Sun May 23 10:20:24 2010
Subject: Opening statement

It seems "off" to me. Is the message, we're working toward a "win-win" strategy? Also, will Geithner be upset because I talk about the economy? And I don't think I can limit my references only to climate change and energy w all these other USG officials present and w deliverables we're seeking/announcing. I have to mention health, education, development and women at least. Can we fix in written text before morning?