

RELEASE IN FULL

---

From: H <hrod17@clintonemail.com>
Sent: Thursday, May 20, 2010 7:46 AM
To: 'sullivanjj@state.gov'
Subject: Re: Mexican treatment of the undocumented

Another example of "you should take the log from your own eye before criticizing the speck in your neighbor's."

----- Original Message -----

From: Sullivan, Jacob J <SullivanJJ@state.gov>
To: H
Sent: Wed May 19 19:51:50 2010
Subject: Mexican treatment of the undocumented

FYI, from WHA:

Mexican law enforcement officials cannot stop individuals and require proof of migratory status. However, like SB1070, officials in the course of official "contact" (i.e. Traffic stops, investigations, hot pursuit) are authorized to request proof of migratory status. They do this in practice routinely. Frequently, individuals who cannot prove legal status are referred to INM (federal CBP-equivalent). In practice, GoM authorities at all levels engage in exploitative treatment of migrants, primarily Central Americans heading to the US. These abuses have been well documented by international human rights groups, as well as by multiple documentary and news media reports.