From our UNAMA colleagues:

The MPs have agreed to a delay of inauguration until Wednesday on the condition that the Special Court is abolished and only the Supreme Court handles individual criminal cases. They have given the President until 10am Sunday to respond in a public manner. If there is a negative response, they'll convene the Parliament tomorrow afternoon at 4pm.

More to follow our Sunday morning when we make contact with the key MPs.

Quanooni confirmed what was noted below and that proposal to the President will be send tonight, giving the deadline for President's reply by 10am tommorow morning. If he says yes, than inauguration on Wednesday, if not- tomorrow afternoon. MPs will meet again tomorrow at 9am at Intercontinental.

Quanooni very thankful to IC and in particular Hillary Clinton for their firm stand.
3rd point on Special Court was not agreed with President and was added by MPs.
I welcomed the emergling deal and we both agreed to stay in close touch.
