

RELEASE IN PART B6

From: Mills, Cheryl D <MillsCD@state.gov>
Sent: Tuesday, March 8, 2011 11:25 PM
To: H
Subject: Fw: Hi!

----- Original Message -----

From: Stephen Warnath [mailto: ]
Sent: Tuesday, March 08, 2011 06:08 PM
To: Mills, Cheryl D
Subject: Re: Hi!

Hi Cheryl,

I thought that it might end up not being possible to have the chance to say hello today. Completely understandable. But sorry I missed you and I will look forward to whenever I see you in the future.

I should mention how much I love attending the Women of Courage Awards event. I think it is my favorite event to attend each year because it is so inspirational and, for me, energizing. Year after year the women who are celebrated are incredibly brave. It is a reminder of what the personal stakes are for real people in their own countries. And their illumination of unfathomable courage day-to-day distinguishes not only them but also this event in a meaningful way from a lot of things that I've attended over the years. So I must say thank you to the people in the State Department who let me attend this each year!

Take care Cheryl!

Cheers, Steve

On Mar 7, 2011, at 8:42 PM, Mills, Cheryl D wrote:

> Not sure I will be there but will try!!!

>

> ----- Original Message -----

> From: Stephen Warnath [mailto: ]
 > Sent: Monday, March 07, 2011 04:11 PM
 > To: Mills, Cheryl D
 > Subject: Hi!

>

> Hi Cheryl,

>

> I'm going to be attending the Women of Courage ceremony tomorrow. If > you happen to be there and if there is an opportunity (I realize that > there may not be), then I'll try to come by and say a quick "hello" to > you.

>

B6

B6

> Whether or not I get a chance to see you tomorrow, I hope that you are > doing well.

>
> Best wishes,

> S

>

>

>

> On Dec 29, 2010, at 6:15 AM, Mills, Cheryl D wrote:

>

>> Steve

>>

>> Likewise!

>>

>> I hope your holidays are enjoyable, restful and productive.

>>

>> XO

>> Cdm

>>

>> ----- Original Message -----

>> From: Stephen Warnath <

>> To: Mills, Cheryl D

>> Sent: Tue Dec 28 21:51:42 2010

>> Subject: Happy 2011

>>

>>

>> Dear Cheryl,

>>

>> I just wanted to wish you happy holidays (and hope you are having a >> chance to enjoy with family and friends) and especially I wish you a >> wonderful and happy and healthy new year!

>>

>> All best wishes,

>> Steve

>

B6