Second: The visit of Indian Prime Minister Singh to Kabul last week was a very significant event. His speech before Parliament should be closely tracked against Pakistani policy. They are, in fact, closely aligned and that is not an accident on the part of India. I believe this visit affirms the possibilities of the Indian-Afghan-Pakistan track and merits our whole hearted, immediate followup.

Three: [redacted]
[redacted] Gilani left for China the day after our meeting
[redacted]

Finally: [redacted]
[redacted]

We all know this will be a troubled relationship because that is it's nature. But there are real possibilities at this moment to put options to the test.
