Laura--

My phone service is sketchy at best. So, rather than play phone tag w you, let me explain what I am asking. And, thank you, in advance, for accepting!

I have created a new federal advisory committee at the State Department to provide me with informed advice on a broad range of U.S. foreign policy issues.

The committee will be comprised of approximately twenty-five private American citizens who have distinguished backgrounds in U.S. diplomacy, development and national security affairs. The membership will be bi-partisan and diverse. We have named this committee the Foreign Affairs Policy Board, which you will recognize, mirrors the comparable DOD Defense Policy Board that has been in operation for years.

Would you be willing to serve on this board for a two-year term? I plan to hold three board meetings per year at the State Department. We will try to have the first one this fall.

All members will be appointed as Special Government Employees (SGEs). As such, they will be required to complete Confidential Financial Disclosure Reports before their first board meeting.

The board meetings will be classified. All members will maintain State Department security clearances for the duration of their terms.

As a member of this board, you will not receive a salary, but will be reimbursed for travel, lodging and per diem expenses incurred to attend the meetings in Washington, DC.

I am delighted that you are willing to accept this invitation. I am copying Jake Sullivan, Director of Policy Planning, and asking that a member of my staff contact you to start the necessary paper work process.

I am delighted we will (finally) be working together again. If you have any questions for me, pls contact me directly thru this email. I look forward to seeing you soon. All the best, H

Dear Hillary,

This is indeed still my email. I am sorry I missed your call. I listened to your message and tried to call you back but your cell did not pick up. I am honored by your invitation to join the new board you are setting up. Let me know when it would be convenient to schedule a call. I will be in the US through September 5, then away for two weeks, and then in NYC-DC during the week of September 19.

[REDACTED]

Have a wonderful vacation. I am delighted by the prospect of working with you.

Laura
