By the way, let S know that ASSK made sure to tell me during a photo stand-up the other day that her dog "drinks everyday out of the U.S. Secretary of State's dog dish." Not sure if ASSK's reading the books we provided, but good to know at least somebody in her family is benefiting tangibly from the visit.

Have unfortunately been out of pocket out here in Chiang Mai over the last few hours but see the statement has developed extremely well. Thanks to all. Much excitement and encouragement among many in the border community who are back in touch with old friends after many years of worry and wait. They report with some surprise that their long-incarcerated friends not only sound good but are ready to jump right back into the political fray without missing a beat. Much more work to be done as this statement says, but remarkable day.

Derek

Based on EAP's draft. I kept most of the points but re-structured it a bit to put today's announcement in context. Attached and pasted below. It's 530 words, or about 4 minutes.
