Here are details, in case it's possible:

Per the residents of Qusra village south of Nablus, armed settlers torched the first floor of the local mosque in the village this morning. They say that settlers entered into the village early in the morning and headed toward the mosque, smashed windows and set fire to a number of tires inside the mosque. Substantial damage was caused by the fire which was eventually extinguished by the local residents.

Here's a new effort, shorter, and less ambitious in trying to make every desirable point over the phone, given his phone skills. [redacted]

That's good. Unless Jon has any suggestions, Maher, please add these and get to S Specials. I've alerted Jake. The call can be today, tomorrow, or even early Monday.
