

RELEASE IN PART
B6

From: Sullivan, Jacob J <SullivanJJ@state.gov>
Sent: Tuesday, August 21, 2012 8:29 AM
To: H
Subject: Fw: DEMPSEY SAFE IN WAKE OF MISSILE ATTACK -- IL RADIO AND AFP

Fyi

From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Tuesday, August 21, 2012 04:32 AM
To: Sullivan, Jacob J
Subject: Fw: DEMPSEY SAFE IN WAKE OF MISSILE ATTACK -- IL RADIO AND AFP

Jake -- just FYI. This was the Chairman's backup C-17. I'm in Israel for a few days [REDACTED] See you next week. Best, Harry

From: Schut, Andrew [mailto:SchutA@state.gov]
Sent: Tuesday, August 21, 2012 08:28 AM
To: Harris, Harry B VADM USN (US); [REDACTED] USAF (US)
Subject: Fw: DEMPSEY SAFE IN WAKE OF MISSILE ATTACK -- IL RADIO AND AFP

From: Blaukopf, Ruth B
To: Forden, Robert W; Gardner, Rebecca V; Goldberger, Thomas H; Schut, Andrew; Surowicz, Mireille M; Barwig, Andrew W; Duwan, Gottlieb J; Eussen, Matthew; Mack, Jason R; Parsell, Benjamin C; Nelson, Timothy (Tel Aviv); Weigold Schultz, Eva A
Sent: Tue Aug 21 11:06:21 2012
Subject: DEMPSEY SAFE IN WAKE OF MISSILE ATTACK -- IL RADIO AND AFP

IL RADIO REPORTS THAT GEN. DEMPSEY IS SAFE BUT HIS PLANE WAS HIT IN A MISSILE ATTACK ON THE BAGRAM AIRBASE IN SOUTH AFGHANISTAN. AT LEAST ONE OR TWO SOLDIERS WERE INJURED BY THE MISSILE THAT STRUCK THE PLANE.

Ruth

Afghan rocket attack damages U.S. military chief's plane

August 21, 2012 10:44 AM

A+ A-

BAGRAM, Afghanistan: A rocket fired on a U.S. airbase in Afghanistan early Tuesday damaged the aircraft of America's top military officer and wounded two maintenance crew, officers said.

Two insurgent rockets struck the vast Bagram air field overnight, with one causing damage to the C-17 used by General Martin Dempsey, chairman of the US Joint Chiefs of Staff, who left the base using another plane, his spokesman Colonel Dave Lapan told reporters.

Shrapnel from the rocket struck the door of the plane while it was parked on the runway and two American maintenance crew suffered minor injuries in the attack, Lapan said. This email is UNCLASSIFIED.

The attack posed no threat to the safety of Dempsey or his staff, who were asleep in their quarters at the time of the incident, officers said.

Although sporadic shelling of Bagram is not uncommon, Taliban insurgents rarely manage to inflict serious damage or casualties at the base, according to military reports.