Jake, HRC knows about the creation of the US-Pakistan Women's Council and that its formal announcement will be in NY as part of Equal Futures event (couple sentence mention in her longer remarks). I don't think it should be raised as part of their press avail here, but it would be awkward for her not to mention it privately in the bilat. It would bring a lot of new, private resources to women's economic empowerment in Pakistan – which, among so much else, is critically needed and the Pakistanis have been very embracing.
